

DUEL OF PITCHERS IS WON BY JACK LAWSON

ALL-ARMY TEAM SUBSTITUTES FOR STANFORD AGAINST ALL-CHINESE ARE VICTORS IN GREAT GAME

With the All-Chinese and Stanford ball game called off owing to the death of outfielder Russell F. Downing of the Varsity team, the All-Army aggregation was substituted for the Cardinals against the All-Chinese yesterday afternoon at Moiliili Field and from the time the ball went into play, until Kau Yin grounded out to Van Dyke, the game was about as peppery as one as the fans have seen heretofore for many months.

To the All-Chinese went the short end of the score, the soldiers gathering the only run of the game. This went over the rubber in the fourth inning and when Dumshot spiked the plate, an illustration was given as to how uncertain baseball is. Two were in the hole when Dumshot went to bat and though he made a desperate swing at the ball the best he could do was a weak roller to You Bun. The All-Chinese shortstop played the ball awkwardly and then fumbled it just long enough to allow Dumshot to reach first base in safety. This paved the way for Hurdley and he hit safely to center field. Hope had not as yet fled with the Chinese as to the soldiers getting a run for Dixon, the next man up does not rate high in the swim line. Dixon then upset all calculations by lifting the ball safely back of second base, breaking his bat on the blow. Dumshot scored. Dumshot next up had a chance to break into the hall of fame but he hit weakly to the pitcher and died at first.

Soldiers Dangerous

In the sixth the soldiers were dangerous when Dumshot led off with a clean double to left center field but Cheung made a great stop of Hurdley's drive and doubled Dumshot at second. A neat double play, Kai Luke to You Bun to Cheung, also nipped any chances the soldiers had of scoring in the second.

Lawson's great pitching saved his team on more than one occasion. In the second, Lang Akana poled a double to left and then moved to third when Kau Yin flew out to left. Apau fanned and Yen Chin popped out to Van Dyke, who by the way, played second base with all the elegance and grace of a major league player.

Sauer only threw twice to get a runner, nailing the fleet footed Kai Luke in the fourth after he had singled with none out and likewise Eo Sue in the eighth. Lawson also got out of jam in the fifth when with Van Dyke at second and Apau at first, he fanned Apau and Hoon Ki and forced Yen Chin to pop out to center field.

His best pitching was in the fourth. Kai Luke had singled and then Lawson fanned Cheung and Lang Akana. After this Sauer tossed Luke out at second, Dumshot making a great catch and touching of the player on the play.

Featuring the game besides the All-Chinese was the fast fielding of Eo Sue, Kai Luke and You Bun for the All-Chinese and Mangum's catch of Kan Yen's drive and Hurdley's catch of Apau's long fly back of third base. Also did Messrs. Statton and Olmos feature the game by clever umpiring and the big boss rushed the game through in one hour and seventeen minutes.

The crowd was a good one despite the fact that several of the fans turned about and went home when informed that the Stanford's were unable to play. Fact is the Cardinals have become warm favorites with the baseball public as well as others here and much sympathy was expressed over the unfortunate accident which befell outfielder Downing.

MUST TAKE LONG REST

Nervous Disorder In Left Shoulder Forces Star To Quit

Following a rigid examination in the hospital of a nerve specialist, at Chicago, two weeks ago, Christy Mathewson of the New York Giants was told to quit playing baseball for the next six weeks.
Suffering recently from a nervous disorder of the left shoulder, Mathewson has been unable to take his regular turn in pitching for some time, and when the club reached Chicago he was obliged to take a brief rest for the sake of a specialist. He has been unable to sleep more than three hours a night, he said, because of the pain.
Veteran baseball men who have discussed the case with Mathewson are of the opinion that he is suffering from the same nerve affliction that troubled "Big Red" Walsh of the Chicago Americans of his pitching ability, ten years ago. An undisciplined nervousness sharpens him to about through Mathewson's shoulders and neck.

HAWAII'S BIG SIX OFF FOR EXPOSITION MEETS

GREATEST COMBINATION OF SWIMMERS ISLANDS COULD SELECT PROMISE TO BRING HOME FAME AND HONOR FOR NATIVE LAND

Hawaii's "Big Six"—Duke P. Kahanamoku, Clarence Lane, George Cunha, Lawrence Cunha, Harold Kruger and Lukea Kaupiko—accompanied by William T. Rawlins and their trainer departed for the mainland yesterday where they are to compete in the Pacific Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States swimming meets at the Panama-Pacific Exposition beginning July 16. The local swimmers will hardly arrive in time to take part in the preliminary trials to be run under the auspices of the Pacific Athletic Association which started yesterday and will continue until July 9.

At that these events are figured as being merely warm up stunts for the A. A. U. and P. P. E. championship events.
The meet which opened yesterday is the first time in the history of the P. A. A. that women swimmers are recognized and whatever records made will be official P. A. A. records.

Hawaii has already held an A. A. U. meet in which women competed. In the first of these, Miss Dorothy Becker, from San Francisco hung up a record of something over 0:35 seconds in a fifty-yard dash. Last March at Alameda, California, Miss Frances Cowell covered the distance in 0:32.35. Last June, in the local harbor Miss Lucelle Legros covered the distance in 0:32.25 establishing a bona fide A. A. U. record which will be the mark the entries in the meets at the Exposition will have to beat to gain recognition as champions.

Both Miss Becker and Miss Cowell are entries in the P. A. A. and A. A. U. events as well as several of the best swimmers of the mainland, amongst them being Miss Constantine Meyer of Portland, Miss Mable Canning of Portland, Miss Alice Goodman and others. Hawaii has no representative in the events.
Keen Competition
Competition in the men's events will no doubt be keener this year than ever before in the history of swimming. Several of the world's best men are to compete. With the members of the Olympic Club of San Francisco confidence reigns supreme the "Winged O" swimmers will capture the meet. This club is particularly strong in the short distances with Bob Small, who once defeated Duke, Ernie Smith and H. Robertson. Small and Smith both down to start in the fifty and 100-yard dashes. The duo will be augmented by H. Robertson, who is heralded a new star in swimming on the mainland, because he has been timed under 26 seconds on numerous occasions in the 50-yard dashes. Comparing this with Kahanamoku's time of 23 seconds flat for the distance swum here in Honolulu and 22.35 seconds in Australia, Duke need not fear that the Lincoln Journal's one legged swimmer who swam here some time ago, is a hope of the Olympics in the 220 yard dash. H. Jennings will start in the back stroke. Los Angeles will send Ludy Langer who recently covered 220 yards in 2:27, which is two seconds faster than the time of Duke and George Cunha who smashed a world's record at the distance in the Kamehameha Day events.

Others to swim in the big meets will be representatives from the Metropolitan, Central and Pacific Associations as well as the Northwest and Southern California Association.

Hawaii to Compete
The first meet in which the local men will take part will be the indoor events scheduled to start July 16, at Sutter Baths. These events will comprise the 50 yards, 100 yards, 220 yards, back and breast stroke, high and spring board diving and the relay race.

In the relay event, Hawaii will be represented by George Cunha, Harold Kruger, Clarence Lane and Duke P. Kahanamoku, the world's champion to swim the last relay. In selecting the Hawaiian team and which is to compete in the meets at the All-Hawaiian team, and which will be in position to score points, great care was exercised in selecting the men and local afternoon.

PORTLAND, July 4.—After dropping four games in a row to the Beavers, Rowdy Elliott's men took a brace here yesterday afternoon and won after a hard fight from McCredie's men. Score—Oakland 5, Portland 4.

At San Francisco, the Seals kept up the pace set against the Tigers and Duke White's men were again on the short end of the game. Score—San Francisco 4, Venice 2.

At Los Angeles, the Bees woke up and after a hard fight succeeded in beating Dillon's men. Score—Salt Lake 3, Los Angeles 2.

FRANK GOTCH HAS NO TROUBLE WITH ORDMAN

followers of swimming are of the opinion that the Big Six is the greatest combination ever gotten together in the Islands.
In the final tryouts to select the sixth man, held last Friday afternoon the competition was of the keenest. Five men competed as follows: Albert Carter, against William Kahanamoku and Lukea Kaupiko against Lawrence and Frank Cunha. Kaupiko and Kahanamoku were winners, and in the final, Kaupiko defeated Kahanamoku and he was selected as the sixth man.

By some extraordinary mischance the news of the shooting of Huntsman in the Honolulu on March 19, 1893, did not reach his relatives, and for more than twenty years his mother has been wondering why her boy did not write, and watching for his return until her hair whitened, her eyes grew dim and the lamp of life has nearly burned out.

And all that time her son has been sleeping in a foreign burying ground, his grave today forgotten and no stone to inform the curious passerby who is resting beneath his feet.

D. L. Huntsman, according to The Advertiser file, was shot and killed by August Herring, a half-white, at the latter's residence in Liliha street. Herring, with his wife and child, had been living in Liliha street for a few months, and Huntsman was a roomer, having made his home with the family for several years.

On March 19, 1893, Herring had trouble with his wife and would have shot her had it not been for the interference of a Japanese domestic.

After attacking his wife Herring went out on the lanai in a fiery mood. When Huntsman, coming home, reached the steps of the lanai, Herring blazed, "You are my enemy," and shot him twice above the mouth and the other lodging in the left hip. Huntsman died soon after in the Queen's Hospital.

Herring had made an unsuccessful attempt to get possession of his wife's property and after she had agreed to turn over her bank book to him she changed her mind and refused to do so. Herring had promised to buy his wife a diamond bracelet and a horse and buggy if she would sign over her money, but at the last moment her father interfered and prevented the transfer of the property.

This is said to have been the cause of the quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Herring, the husband blaming Huntsman with having interfered with his plans, not knowing that it was his wife's father who was responsible.

Herring was one of the young men sent abroad by the government of Hawaii to be educated. In 1887 he was sent to Italy to be instructed in the art of sculpture.

Huntsman, when killed, was editor of The Liberal, a journal published by Robert Wilcox. He was formerly a government school teacher and was a member of the supreme court of the Hawaiian Islands.

DYING MOTHER WILL NOT HEAR FROM LOST SON

Editor D. L. Huntsman Was Murdered Here More Than Twenty Years Ago

Not to hear a word from her son for twenty-two years and then, on her dying bed, to learn that he was murdered in the far country to which he had journeyed, will be the sad experience of the mother of D. L. Huntsman, unless her friends mercifully keep the doleful tidings from her.

In yesterday's Advertiser appeared a letter from Mrs. B. M. Shephard of San Jose, California, asking for information regarding Huntsman, who, she said, went to the Islands as a school teacher and was, she thought, admitted to the bar.

"Any information," she wrote, "would be gratefully received, as his mother is near death and yearns to hear from her son."

By some extraordinary mischance the news of the shooting of Huntsman in the Honolulu on March 19, 1893, did not reach his relatives, and for more than twenty years his mother has been wondering why her boy did not write, and watching for his return until her hair whitened, her eyes grew dim and the lamp of life has nearly burned out.

NEW RULES FOR HAWAII SALOONS ARE STRINGENT

They Prohibit Treating By Bartender and Abolish 'Chit' System of Credit

(Mail Special to The Advertiser.)
HILO, July 2.—Treating by bartenders while on duty is one of the new prohibitions of the liquor license commission, included in a list of rules passed and approved at the first meeting of the new board held on last Thursday. This, and another rule that prohibits acceptance of "chits," in lieu of cash, by saloons, restaurants or hotels, will seriously affect old established practices of the drinking fraternity in Hilo.

There are fifteen other rules, but they apply mostly to the conduct of the drinking establishments, while the two mentioned strike directly at the customers. They will be mighty discouraging to the drinker without cash, for now he cannot wait around until the "house buys" after the third round as custom has long dictated. Neither can he get a drink "on his face," unless the saloon endangers its license. Surely calamitous state of affairs for the bar-ridden wanderer troubled with "shorts" of the pocketbook and a long thirst!

All of the new members of the commission recently appointed by Governor Pinkham were present, excepting Thomas White of Kona, who is in San Francisco. The other new appointees are Jack Easton and Sam Woods. John T. Moir and R. T. Guard, former members of the commission, were reelected chairman and secretary, respectively. Retiring members of the commission are William Ogg and E. M. Spencer.

Besides the organization of the commission and the election of officers, the passages of a new schedule of rules was the most important business transacted. Sam Woods was appointed a committee of one to interview the supervisors and attempt to secure an additional appropriation of $100 a month to be used in employing a special police officer to aid Harry Overend, the license inspector to secure evidence against blind pigs.

From expressions made by the commissioners it was evident that the business of the blind pigs are to be made extremely precarious and that an active campaign is to be conducted against the illicit liquor dealers. The commissioners desire the services of a special officer, rather than to be furnished an officer by Sheriff Pua, as they feel they will be able to show better results, and that the salary expenditure will more than be repaid by future income from licenses.

The rules approved by the commissioners are as follows:
1. All licensed premises shall be kept in a good sanitary condition, with clean glasses, toweling, bar, floors and stupors.

2. All rooms, stall and similar structures, within licensed premises other than lavatories or toilet room, and one store room shall open into and upon one and the same room and none other, and shall not have doors, screens or other obstructions to a clear and unimpeded view of the interior thereof.

3. In licensed saloon premises all street entrances and windows opening upon streets shall be free from screens to the satisfaction of the Board.

4. No living rooms allowed on premises.
5. No back or side entrances to, or connected with any licensed saloon premises shall be permitted, except such as shall be approved by the Board.

6. The business authorized by a second class saloon license shall be conducted only in a detached building or rooms completely partitioned off from premises not contained within the premises licensed. By "partitions" is meant permanent partitions reaching to the ceilings and not containing any door, window or opening of any kind.

7. The use of any musical instruments shall not be permitted at any time on any saloon licensed premises.
8. No treating by the bartender while on duty.

9. No playing of cards, shaking of dice, or any similar game is not permitted.
